Kirk Schneidawind
MSBA Executive Director
Proper Onboarding is Essential to Building a Strong School Board Team

By Kirk Schneidawind, MSBA Executive Director

The 2023 election is already in our rearview mirror. Odd-year elections for our school boards are a smaller affair. By choice, a much smaller percentage of our school districts choose to hold their school board elections in an odd year in large part because a brighter light gets shown on these local elections. The local nonpartisan elections do not have to compete with state and federal level partisan elections – and in 2023, school board elections received a great deal of attention.

I do not recall a time during my tenure at MSBA when we received so many media requests to talk about school board elections. While the elections received a fair amount of attention from the inquisitive media, one question that was asked consistently – “What do school boards do?” – was surprising. After all, every school district in Minnesota is led by a school board consisting of six or seven community members. Our public must know what our school boards do, correct? After the third time of receiving the same question, I began to wonder whether people and voters understood the important role and responsibilities of their school boards.

As our newly elected school board members transition from the campaign trail to their responsibilities of governance, it is important to remember that they may not fully understand their new role as they ease into their seats in January. Thus, the importance of delivering a supportive onboarding program for the newly elected members is a fundamental and essential building block of a high-functioning school board.

For a school board to move forward, sometimes the board needs to slow down to ensure that the new members feel welcome, understand the board’s governance culture, and the district’s vision. While it may feel like all this needs to be completed by the time they take their seat in January, extend your board and administrative team some grace. Intentional and purposeful onboarding is essential before and after they are officially sworn in.

Play the long game as you consider the essential knowledge and skills that are necessary to become an effective board member. As you know from your own board experience, learning while on the job is part of development and growth. Often intended, but frequently missed in the onboarding process, is to ask questions about new board members’ interests, skills, and goals. In our haste to ensure new board members know everything about the operational and systemic complexities in our school district, we often forget that we have a new team member(s) who ran because they want to be part of the school board team that can make a difference in the lives of our public school students. A simple phone call or note from individual board members welcoming new members to the school board will also go a long way in developing these new relationships.

There are tremendous onboarding and team-building opportunities just around the corner. We look forward to welcoming our newest and veteran school board members at the 2024 MSBA Leadership Conference where there will be many learning and experiential opportunities for our school board members and superintendents.

Your MSBA staff also understands the value and importance of these first important steps for your new board members. The first three installments of MSBA’s Learning to Lead Workshop Series will be offered the two days preceding the conference to make it convenient and easy to enjoy the biggest and best educational conference in 2024.

We look forward to seeing all of you in January!

Kirk Schneidawind is the MSBA Executive Director. You may contact Kirk about this column at kschneidawind@mnmsba.org.

12 Ways to Get the Most Out of the Conference

Welcome! MSBA is your professional organization. We are confident you will leave this event with a wealth of information to help you with your role as a school board member or superintendent. Here are a few tips for getting the most from the conference.

1. Look through your materials. This MSBA Journal magazine includes the Leadership Conference program. The program includes event schedules and other important information.

2. Review your email inbox. Information and resources to make your Leadership Conference experience run as smooth as possible will be in your email registered with MSBA. We’ve partnered with TSLeads to provide a streamlined low-contact registration process.

3. Your safety is key. MSBA staff has worked closely with the conference partners (hotels, Minneapolis Convention Center, and Meet Minneapolis) to provide you with a welcoming and safe environment.

4. Visiting Minneapolis. The Meet Minneapolis kiosk located in the registration area will provide you with dining, shopping, and transportation options. They will help you figure out where you want to go and help you make an informed travel plan. As always, we encourage you to travel with a buddy.

5. Health considerations. Before you start your day, assess how you feel. If you’re not feeling well, please consider not attending the conference to assure you and your fellow attendees stay healthy.

6. Be punctual. We value your time. Unless something unavoidable occurs, our events begin and end on time. We do not have assigned or priority seating, so please plan to arrive at sessions early to get settled.

7. Don’t be shy. Introduce yourself to other school board members. You will find them to be valuable resources – both at the conference and in the future. Chances are, whatever challenges you are facing on your school board, one or more of your fellow MSBA members have been there before. Name badges provide information to help you get to know fellow conference attendees. The number and ribbon on the badge tell you which MSBA Director District attendees are from. You can find your coordinating ribbon at the table by registration.

8. Introduce yourself to MSBA staff and the MSBA Board of Directors. If the staff or your MSBA Board Director doesn’t find you first, please introduce yourself to them at the registration desk and other locations around the conference. They are wearing a gold state of Minnesota name badge and are there to help you. Please, don’t hesitate to ask for assistance.

9. Check out and thank the vendors. More than 200 vendors exhibit at the Leadership Conference, and their support is what enables you to attend the conference without a registration fee. Take some time to visit the vendors and explore what they have to offer.

10. MSBA Leadership Conference App. Through the conference app, you will find available session materials from presenters and you will be able to provide session feedback. MSBA appreciates your comments and will review all feedback given. See Page 12 to learn how to access the app.

11. Take what you learn home. MSBA encourages school board members attending the conference to report at your next board meeting what you learned at the conference to all of your fellow board members and key staff who couldn’t attend. Sharing what you learned will help your team grow.

12. MSBA is YOUR organization. Above all, know that MSBA is your organization. We are a diverse group of people with one goal in mind: providing the best possible education to our students. You will find your fellow school board members and MSBA staff ready to help you reach that goal.

Enjoy the conference, and please let any of the MSBA staff or your MSBA Board of Directors know if they can help you at the conference and after you return home.
Opening Keynote Speakers
Thursday, January 11, 2024

Hadi Partovi and Hannah Weissman
“Computer Science and AI: Opportunity and Creativity”

Hadi Partovi

With artificial intelligence (AI) and coding being such prevailing topics in the K-12 world, MSBA is bringing in one of the country’s top computer science minds.

Hadi Partovi – a technology entrepreneur and CEO of the education nonprofit Code.org – will deliver his keynote address, “Computer Science and AI: Opportunity and Creativity,” along with Code.org Directory of Policy Hannah Weissman during the Opening Session of the 2024 MSBA Leadership Conference on Thursday, January 11, at the Minneapolis Convention Center.

Born in Tehran, Iran, Partovi grew up during the Iran-Iraq war. His school did not offer computer science classes, so he taught himself to code at home on a Commodore 64. After immigrating to the United States, he spent his summers working as a software engineer to help pay his way through college.

Upon graduating from Harvard University with a master’s degree in computer science, Partovi pursued a career in technology starting at Microsoft where he rose into the executive ranks. He founded two startups: Tellme Networks (acquired by Microsoft) and iLike (acquired by NewsScorp). Hadi now invests and advises other technology startups.

In 2013, Partovi and his twin brother Ali launched the education nonprofit Code.org, which Partovi continues to lead full-time as CEO. Code.org has established computer science classes reaching 30% of U.S. students, created the most broadly used curriculum platform for K-12 computer science, and launched the global Hour of Code movement that has reached hundreds of millions of students spanning every country in the world.

In an interview with MSBA in the November-December 2023 edition of the Journal magazine, Partovi discussed opportunities AI can provide education, the importance of computer science curriculum, and more. Visit https://bit.ly/3u9vgnR to access an interview with Partovi.

Hannah Weissman

Hannah Weissman is the Director of Policy at Code.org, where she advocates for statewide policies that promote K-12 computer science. She is the principal author of the influential annual State of Computer Science report. A proud alumna of St. Paul Public Schools, Weissman’s passion for computer science was ignited in a high school that offered this critical subject.

Weissman played a pivotal role in the passage of the Computer Science Advancement Act in Minnesota during the 2023 legislative session. Working alongside a diverse coalition, she helped to shape this landmark legislation.

With her experience and dedication, Weissman brings invaluable insights into policy advocacy and the importance of equitable computer science education in K-12 schools.

Presentation synopsis

With the rapid advances in technology, it’s imperative for schools to embrace computer science and artificial intelligence – not only to modernize education and curriculum for the needs of the future, but also to make school more creative and engaging for students. Hadi Partovi, the founder and CEO of Code.org, will talk about the global movement to include AI and computer science in K-12 curriculum.

Closing Session Keynote Speaker

Friday, January 12, 2024

Ben Rudrud

“Positive Relationships and the Power of One”

The 2024 MSBA Leadership Conference will close strong with a keynote speaker who bills his presentations as: “It’s Not Just a Message, It’s an Experience.”

Ben Rudrud – a nationally recognized, award-winning keynote speaker who travels the country speaking to students, educators, colleges, and business professionals – will deliver his keynote address, “Positive Relationships and the Power of One,” during the Closing Session of the 2024 MSBA Leadership Conference on Friday, January 12, at the Minneapolis Convention Center.

Rudrud plans to deliver a powerful and uplifting keynote message. He will share with members how to help make their schools even more amazing by creating a “RIPL” effect through positive relationships and ensuring all students have the Power of One. RIPL stands for Relational, Impactful, Preventative, Leadership.

Rudrud tells personal stories filled with practical advice and humor using an animated delivery. He captivates audiences with his messages and leaves people inspired and uplifted with hope.

In an interview with MSBA in the November-December 2023 edition of the Journal magazine, Rudrud touches on the power of positive relationships, the concept of the Power of One, and offers advice to school board members to support success for all students. See an excerpt of the interview below. Visit https://bit.ly/3St1Rz5 to access the full interview.

MSBA: How does your message about the power of positive relationships translate to the school board table in a time when school boards are increasingly having trouble working together?

RUDRUD: My message is going to be all about inspiring each other to know that we are on the very best team. I want school board members to know how valuable they are. I want them to know that they are looked up to in the community. And even when times are tough, there are people that do support them, that are there for them, that are rooting for them. I’m going to sprinkle that in my full message. I am also going to share what I call the Power of One with these board members. Positive relationships make everything better, no matter if it’s a business, a school, anything.

MSBA: What advice do you have for school board leaders so they can focus on the work they need to get done to support success for all students?

RUDRUD: Stay the course. We have tough days in education, but we have far more better days. I’m going to talk about finishing the race, and that message applies to anything we do, but it’s about knowing how important you are and how much you are believed in. Some days it doesn’t feel like there are, but there are so many people on the same team. The team that always wins for the success of our students. My message is going to be centered around putting each other first, putting positive relationships first – so, everybody knows that it’s a school that values relationships above anything else, and it’s a priority. Every single student, every faculty member, every community member must know how important they are, how valuable they are, and how much they all matter, and that we’re all part of the same team.

Presentation synopsis

A powerful and uplifting keynote message to help make your school even more amazing than it already is by creating a “RIPL effect” through positive relationships and ensuring all students have the Power of One.

If we are informed that a presentation strays from a topic and slides into politics or a sales pitch, and it is confirmed, that presenter will not be invited back. When it comes to the education of our students, the focus is on policy, not politics.

A Better Day Begins with Better Fuel

School buses fueled by propane autogas are cleaner and noticeably quieter, giving students a safe, peaceful ride to school. Plus, real-world testing proves that propane autogas buses reduce NOx emissions by 96% compared to clean diesel. And because propane powers the lowest total cost-of-ownership available, savings from the switch to propane buses can be applied to more teachers, extracurricular activities, and supplies.

$5,000 incentive available for the purchase of a new propane autogas school bus. Contact us to learn more or to apply.
